HR 3275 - Implementing Certain International Terrorism Conventions
(Rep. Smith (R) Texas)

The Administration supports rapid enactment of H.R. 3275, which would implement the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism. These Conventions are both important to ensure that all nations have in place laws to enable full and effective international cooperation against terrorism. By enacting the modest legislation now before the Congress, the United States will be in a position to lead the international community in cooperation against terrorist bombings and terrorist finances.

While neither treaty has yet been ratified by the Senate, the Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings entered into force internationally in May 2001. In October, the President transmitted to the Congress a legislative proposal to implement both conventions. That proposal was marked up and amended slightly by the House Judiciary Committee to reflect the overlapping changes in law effected by the USA Patriot Act. The amended legislation is sufficient to implement the conventions, and should be enacted without delay.
