6 who worked in starr independent counsel office have senate confirmed positions. John Bates and Amy St. Eve are federal district judges, she in Chicago. Steve Colloton (Iowa) and Bill Duffey (Georgia) are US Attorneys. Kevin Martin is FCC Commissioner. Alex Azar is general counsel of HHS. All were confirmed without a dissenting vote. People who worked closely with Starr at Kirkland now in Admin include Paul Clement, Jay Lefkowitz, Patrick Philbin (Deputy AAG in OLC), and Adam Ciongoli (counselor to AG). None of those is a senate-confirmed position.

CURRENT

Regarding the claim of executive privilege over certain Justice Department documents that included a number of prosecution and declination memos, including Clinton Administration memos re whether to seek an independent counsel in the Gore fundraising matter:
Ranking cmte member Henry Waxman (D-CA): "An imperial presidency or an imperial Justice Department conflicts with the democratic principles of our nation" (Chicago Tribune, 12/14).
House Gov't Reform chair Dan Burton (R-IN), "Your guy's acting like he's king." (Boston Globe, 12/14).

Russ Baker, The Nation, re Presidential Records Act executive order:
"Kavanaugh, who once defended Starr's insatiable appetite for information as being not about politics but about the sanctity of the law, has apparently changed his tune."

Stanley Kutler, Chicago Tribune, re Presidential Records Act executive order:
"Bush's action drips with irony. A few years ago, Kavanaugh worked with Kenneth Starr, and eagerly argued that President Clinton had no right to retain documents, no executive privilege, and must yield to every demand made by the Office of Independent Counsel."

STARR

Abner Mikva, Chicago Tribune, Aug. 5, 1998: "This [ruling] will materially affect the way public business is going to be done and to the detriment of public business."

Lloyd Cutler: Meanwhile, the inner workings of the White House have already been affected by years of investigative scrutiny. For example, White House lawyers are now careful not to take notes, Mr. [Lloyd] Cutler said. "When the attorney-client privilege with a Government lawyer is virtually destroyed, that means you don't dare take notes," he said. "You are going to be cautious about what you say and the President will be cautious about what he tells you. That's a serious blow to the Presidency."

Judge David Tatel of D.C. Circuit, dissenting in Lindsey case on government attorney-client privilege: "As a result, Presidents may well shift their trust on all but the most routine legal matters from White House counsel, who undertake to serve the Presidency, to private counsel who represent its occupant. . . . I doubt that White House counsel can perform any of these functions without the candor made possible by the attorney-client privilege. As I said at the outset, weakening the privilege may well cause Presidents to shift their trust from White House lawyers who have undertaken to serve the Presidency, to private lawyers who have not."
