Since we have the holidays coming up, it might be easier to discuss the meeting through an email exchange, Brett. It would be helpful if you could give us the court cases you find important for the Executive Order so that we can get up to speed on them. In addition, since you are going to discuss your goals in the meeting, could we have them beforehand? That way we can come into the meeting with some mature thoughts on how all of our interests can be served.

If there is information coming from us that you would find helpful, please let us know. As people who use presidential records we are very concerned with the manner in which records are maintained and made available. The records in question coming from the Reagan Library are ones that lie at the heart of the decisionmaking process. If we are to learn from the past, it is these kinds of records we need in order to understand and to improve the operation of the political system.

Warm Wishes,

Martha Kumar
