Spurned Clinton nominee wants judge's seat to go to GOP choice Pickering

By JESSE J. HOLLAND

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) _ A Hispanic lawyer who was nominated to a federal appeals court by President Clinton but blocked by Republicans is urging Senate Democrats to confirm Mississippi Judge Charles Pickering to the same court despite accusations of racial insensitivity.

Texas lawyer Jorge Rangel called for the confirmation of Pickering, a U.S. District Court judge, for the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in an April letter to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

His appeal comes as Republicans prepare to step up pressure on Democrats to stop blocking President Bush's judicial nominations when the Senate resumes work Monday.

Rangel often is offered as an example by Democrats that Republicans used the same tactics when a Democrat was making the nominations.

Pickering's nomination to the New Orleans court was blocked last year by Democrats after fierce opposition by the NAACP and other groups criticizing his civil rights record. But Rangel, in a letter to the Judiciary Committee, said Pickering is "free from bias."

"The Charles W. Pickering that I have read about in press reports during the pendency of his current nomination does not comport with the Charles W. Pickering that I have come to know in the last 13 years," said Rangel, who sat on the American Bar Association review panel for Pickering's nomination to the District Court in 1990.

Bush renominated Pickering for the appeals court this year after Republicans took over the Senate, but several Democrats have threatened a filibuster. Republicans have promised to give Pickering another hearing but have not set a date.

"Competent, compassionate, sensitive and free from bias are terms that aptly describe him," said Rangel, a civil law attorney specializing in personal injury, libel and general media litigation.

But some Democrats are not convinced.

"To Senator Leahy and to many other senators, the record of Judge Pickering's poor performance as a federal judge, as well as his actions that violate judicial ethics, are still the most compelling arguments against promoting Judge Pickering to one of the highest courts in the land," said David Carle, spokesman for Sen. Patrick Leahy of Vermont, the top Democrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Meanwhile, Democrats continue to block Hispanic lawyer Miguel Estrada of Washington, D.C., who wants a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Republicans have failed four times to break the Democratic filibuster on Estrada in the almost three months his nomination has been on the Senate floor.

Sen. John Cornyn, R-Texas, who sits on the Judiciary Committee, said now that the war in Iraq is over, pressure must be increased on Democrats to get confirmation for Estrada and also Texas judge Priscilla Owen.

"We've got to find a way to hold them accountable," said Cornyn, who served on the Texas Supreme Court with Owen.

Senators will return Monday after a two-week recess to debate the nomination of Jeff Sutton of Ohio, who wants a seat on the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, which covers federal appeals from Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Michigan.

Democrats and advocacy groups have complained about Sutton's work as a lawyer against disability rights and federal civil rights, but "I would expect that he would pass," said liberal Democrat Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Next on the list is Owen, who like Pickering wants a seat on the 5th Circuit in New Orleans, which covers appeals from Mississippi, Texas and Louisiana.

Democrats have not said whether they will filibuster Owen - who many Democrats and liberal groups say is an anti-abortion and pro-business judicial activist.

Owen, in fact, is nominated for the same seat that Clinton wanted for Rangel in July 1997.

But Rangel's blue slips - approval forms signed by home state senators - were never returned by Texas GOP Sens. Kay Bailey Hutchison and the now-retired Phil Gramm. Clinton withdrew his nomination after Republicans refused to schedule a hearing.

Rangel said Pickering tried to salvage his nomination by calling then-Majority Leader Trent Lott to unsuccessfully press for a hearing.

"To this day, I very much appreciate the fact that Judge Pickering reached out to me and offered to help at a time my pleas for a hearing had fallen on deaf ears," Rangel said.
