PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

STATE ISSUES

EMPLOYMENT FIGURES

Pennsylvania's unemployment rate in August was 5.6 percent, 0.3 percentage point below its peak of 5.9 percent in February 2003.¹ As of August 2004, the national unemployment rate was 5.4 percent. Overall, jobs have been returning to Pennsylvania since February 2004; it has seen an increase of 66,800 jobs since then.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY DECLARATIONS

Hurricane Frances

On September 19, you declared a major disaster status for Pennsylvania and ordered Federal aid to supplement state and local recovery efforts. The aid was targeted for the area struck by severe storms and flooding associated with Tropical Storm Frances on September 8 and 9. Your action makes Federal funding available to affected individuals in the counties of Beaver, Blair, and Crawford.

Hurricane Ivan

You have also declared a major disaster status for the area struck by Tropical Depression Ivan beginning on September 17, and continuing. Your action makes Federal funding available to affected individuals in the counties of Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Centre, Clearfield, Cumberland, Dauphin, Indiana, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Lycoming, Northampton, Perry, Schuylkill, Susquehanna, Washington, Westmoreland, and Wyoming.

COMMONWEALTH BUDGET AND REVENUE

In July, Governor Ed Rendell (D) signed into law a $23 billion budget for FY 2005. In contrast to the previous year's budget, this budget contains no new tax increases and will maintain services for Pennsylvanians by increasing budgets for key programs. These programs include medical assistance, child care, and community mental health. The budget was passed unanimously by the Pennsylvania Senate and 193-8 by the House.

Overall spending will increase by 4.3 percent. A major component of the budget is a measure approving as many as 61,000 slot machines at seven racetracks, two resorts, and five stand-alone sites. Pennsylvania will be second only to Nevada with its number of slot machines. The expected $1 billion in revenue from the slot machines will finance property-tax reductions for homeowners across the Commonwealth.

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

Rendell Administration officials say revenue projections are higher this year than anticipated. The Commonwealth is rebounding from the revenue shortfalls of the last two budget cycles. Pennsylvania Budget Secretary Michael Masch (D) has estimated the Commonwealth will end with a $500 million budget surplus this fiscal year.

EDUCATION BUDGET

Pennsylvania's education system should benefit from the budget, which raises community college spending by 5.8 percent, state-owned college spending by 4.3 percent, and state-related college spending by 3 percent. Overall, basic education subsidies for the Commonwealth's 501 school districts will increase by 3.6 percent, with each district guaranteed a funding boost of at least two percent.

Pennsylvania does better than most states in college completion rates, receiving an "A" in this category on the 2002 report card. However, along with 35 other states, Pennsylvania received an "F" in keeping campuses affordable (from the National Center for Public Policy and Higher Education in its report released on September 15, 2004).

Governor Rendell has urged leaders of Pennsylvania's 14 state universities to forgo a 6.9 percent tuition increase, citing the 4.3 percent increase in their total funding through the new budget.

US AIRWAYS BANKRUPTCY

On September 12, US Airways filed for bankruptcy for the second time in two years after it was unable to secure another round of concessions from its labor unions. The company of over 3,000 pilots and 28,000 employees (including more than 8,000 in Philadelphia) is seeking to reduce overall labor costs by $805 million, including $295 million in annual concessions from pilots.

On March 31, 2003, US Airways received a loan guarantee from the Air Transportation Stabilization Board (ATSB), which was created after 9/11 to help airlines recover. The loan guarantee covered $900 million of a $1 billion loan. This loan, along with private financing and $2 billion in cost cuts, allowed US Airways to emerge from its first bankruptcy. Since then, however, the carrier has not achieved its financial projections because of higher-than-expected fuel costs, intense competition from low-cost airlines such as Southwest Airlines, and a broad decline in high-end demand.

In this second bankruptcy, US Airways will likely try to terminate its remaining pension plans (its pilots' plan was terminated in the last bankruptcy). The Federal Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) would then take over responsibility for the plans' payments and their massive unfunded liabilities. PBGC annual payments are capped at $44,000, meaning that some highly compensated US Airways employees may lose some of their benefits.

US Airways will work to renegotiate its labor contracts and seek private capital as it reorganizes under bankruptcy protection. Without substantial cost cuts and private sector investment, the airline is likely to liquidate.

CAMERA SYSTEM

On September 15, Pittsburgh City Council approved the use of a nearly $496,000 anti-terrorism grant from the U.S. Department of Justice to build a robotic camera system to help public safety officials respond to emergencies. The new cameras will link to existing camera feeds from the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation and other agencies, and be monitored by the city-county Emergency Operations Center.

COAL ENERGY

Governor Rendell has targeted the Pennsylvania coal industry in his plans to put environmental protection at the top of his agenda. The Governor is supporting legislation requiring energy producers to burn less coal within six years. As part of his plan, the Governor wants to require energy companies to increase their use of alternative fuels by ten percent by 2010. The Governor also wants the Commonwealth and government contractors to use alternatives to coal for 20 percent of their energy by 2010.

On June 7, Congressman and U.S. Senate candidate Joe Hoeffel (D-13) called for "energy independence," by proposing energy conservation, alternative production measures, and a 50 percent increase in fuel efficiency for cars.

MERCURY RULES

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

On April 15, Philadelphia became the first major city to pass a resolution urging the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to revisit its mercury rules. Specifically, the Philadelphia resolution urges EPA to issue rules that would reduce mercury emissions by 90 percent by the year 2008. By agreement, EPA will issue final rules in March 2005.

TOBYHANNA ARMY DEPOT

The Tobyhanna Army Depot, located in Monroe County in northeast Pennsylvania, is targeted for the next round of base closures. The Depot is the region's largest employer with 3,500 employees, and it is set to hire another 300. The Depot designs, manufactures, and repairs military electronic systems. It has an annual payroll of over $200 million and supports many local businesses with its purchases. The Depot has an overall economic impact of $900 million, and it is estimated that its spending supports 3,940 additional jobs in the area.

In the last four rounds of base closures from 1988 to 1995, Pennsylvania lost 16,000 jobs. A group of regional business and political leaders has hired a Washington lobbyist to raise $350,000 in an effort to keep the Depot off the U.S. Department of Defense's list of proposed base closures to be submitted in May 2005. Senator Arlen Specter (R, PA) has reiterated his support for keeping the Depot open.

The union president at the Depot, Keith Hill, has spoken out against the President recently, even though the Depot has added 500 workers since October to help support military operations in Iraq and Afghanistan.

CRIME RATES

Serious crimes and lesser offenses declined slightly in 2003 in Pennsylvania overall but increased in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. The annual Uniform Crime Report (which tallies murders, rapes, thefts, assaults, and less serious offenses throughout the state) counted 927,099 crimes reported to state police, a decrease of 0.7 percent from 2002. The number of serious crimes (murder, rape, robbery, arson) also dropped by 0.7 percent. About 321,000 such crimes were reported in 2002, and if that number holds, it will be the state's lowest "serious crime" figure since 1973. The final 2003 figure could change as police continue to update reports throughout this year and next.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES IN PITTSBURGH AND PHILADELPHIA

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

Pittsburgh

In November 2003, Moody's Investor Service became the last of the Nation's big three credit rating agencies to downgrade Pittsburgh's bond rating to junk status. In December 2003, the Commonwealth declared Pittsburgh a distressed municipality. Without reform, budget shortfalls are expected to begin at $34 million in 2004 and rise to $115 million by 2009.

On June 11, Eckert Seamans Cherin and Mellott, LLC (a Pittsburgh-based law firm serving as state-appointed Recovery Plan Coordinator) and Public Financial Management (based in Philadelphia and Harrisburg) filed their revised Recovery Plan for Pittsburgh. The plan incorporates over two hundred cost-saving and workforce-reform initiatives balanced against a series of revenue increases required to fill the remaining gap. It also includes workforce initiatives expected to save $152 million, expenditure reduction initiatives to save another $97 million, revenue and fee initiatives worth $65 million, and $202 million in increased taxes.

On June 15, Mayor Tom Murphy (D) proposed city property tax increases totaling $57 million for next year.

Pittsburgh's finance director's projections are ominous, showing the city will end December $8.8 million in debt. The city controller's projection is equally bad, predicting the city will run out of money by the end of November ending the year $13 million in debt.

The city's fiscal oversight board is expected to issue the legislature its long-term plan for restructuring the budget in the next few weeks. The plan may include increasing the ten dollar yearly occupation tax and instituting a payroll tax for businesses. If the state does not approve some kind of tax reform, the City's Act 47 recovery team is empowered to petition the Common Pleas Court for wage taxes on commuters and city workers.

Philadelphia

On June 21, the Philadelphia City Council passed a $3.4 billion 2005 fiscal year budget in a 12-5 vote. Council members also approved tax-cutting measures to reduce the City's wage and business-privilege taxes. Mayor John Street (D) fought any tax reduction measure. After tough negotiations between Mayor Street and the City

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

Council, some provisions were dropped, including a $110 million business tax-cut bill. Street accepted $50 million in wage tax-cuts and agreed to spending cuts, including four million dollars for the Philadelphia Police Department.

In early September, Mayor Street unveiled a $500 million “New River City” plan to spur redevelopment of abandoned industrial sites near the Schuylkill and Delaware Rivers. The plan includes turning part of the Navy Yard into a mixed-use community of suburban-style homes, office parks, and a marina over the next 30 years

INVESTIGATION OF STREET ADMINISTRATION

Since October 2003, a wide-ranging investigation of city contracts and political connections involving some officials for Philadelphia Mayor John Street has been ongoing. A number of officials connected with the Street Administration have been indicted recently.
