FOCUS ON EDUCATION WITH PRESIDENT BUSH

Wednesday, September 22, 2004

11:25 a.m. – 12:45 p.m.

Valley Forge Convention Center

Indoors

King of Prussia, Pennsylvania

Karl Rove

I. PURPOSE

To participate in a conversation on education.

II. BACKGROUND

You will participate in a conversation with: (1) Gene Hickok, current U.S. Deputy Secretary of Education and the former Pennsylvania Secretary of Education; (2) a member of the Pennsylvania State Board of Education; (3) a principal; and (4) a teacher. (Note: Mrs. Bush and the conversation participants will be seated on stage, and you will not take questions from the audience.)

King of Prussia is located in southeast Pennsylvania, 20 miles northwest of Philadelphia, in Montgomery County. The community got its name in the 18th century from a local tavern that was named “King of Prussia” in honor of Frederick the Great. While the United States Postal Service office still carries the King of Prussia name, there is no incorporated city of King of Prussia. The municipality is officially named Upper Merion Township.

According to the 2000 Census, Upper Merion Township had a population of 26,863, and Montgomery County had a population of 750,097. Montgomery County has the most swing voters of any county in the state. In 2000, you lost Montgomery County by 32,362 votes (43.8 percent to 53.5 percent) and lost Pennsylvania by 204,840 votes (46.4 percent to 50.6 percent).

Montgomery County is the third most populous county in Pennsylvania behind Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties. The county’s business community includes high-tech and world-renowned pharmaceutical companies Merck and Wyeth. Pennsylvania’s unemployment rate stands at 5.6 percent as of August 2004, 0.3 percentage point below its peak of 5.9 percent in February 2003. As of August 2004, the national unemployment rate is 5.4 percent.

b(6)

Note: In King of Prussia, a loaf of bread costs $1.89, a gallon of milk costs $3.39, and a gallon of gas costs $1.91.

Note: Three Pennsylvanians have died serving in Operation Enduring Freedom. Fifty-three Pennsylvanians have died serving in Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Note: The last day to register to vote in Pennsylvania is October 4. The last day to request an absentee ballot is October 26, and the last day to submit an absentee ballot to the County Board of Elections is October 29.

Background on Conversation Participants

BACKGROUND ON CONVERSATION PARTICIPANTS

Note: A condensed version of this background is included on the large-print cards for use at the event.

Dr. Eugene “Gene” Hickok, Deputy Secretary of Education and Former Pennsylvania Secretary of Education (Carlisle, Pennsylvania)

- From March 1995 to April 2001, Dr. Hickok served as Pennsylvania’s Secretary of Education, responsible for overseeing the state’s kindergarten through college education system.
- Dr. Hickok helped implement a sweeping education-reform agenda, which included higher standards for students and teachers; a strong accountability system; locally designed charter public schools; stronger reading, literacy, and library programs; and a model education technology initiative.
- As State Secretary of Education, Dr. Hickok implemented a program that rewarded school districts that excelled in raising student achievement with cash grants to invest in education programs and stipends for teachers.
- Off and on from 1980 to 1995, Dr. Hickok taught political science at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, and he served as director of the College’s Clarke Center for the Interdisciplinary Study of Contemporary Issues.
- He was elected as a member of the Carlisle Area School District Board of Directors and served until his appointment in 1995 as Education Secretary.
- Dr. Hickok is a graduate of Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia. He also received his master’s degree and Ph.D. from the University of Virginia.
- Dr. Hickok and his wife, Kathy, have two grown children.

Luis “Lou” Ramos, Member, Pennsylvania State Board of Education (Bethlehem, Pennsylvania)

- Lou was appointed to the Pennsylvania State Board of Education in 2000. He has served as the Chair of the K-12 Council, one of two State Board of Education Councils, for the past three years.
- He is very supportive of the funding you have given to No Child Left Behind (NCLB) and says, “The President has made an extraordinary investment in education.”
- Lou says, “In Pennsylvania, educators are taking responsibility and ownership of closing that achievement gap.” Pennsylvania has seen an increase in achievement over the past year, especially among fifth- and eighth-grade students. (Note: Pennsylvania’s assessments are given in fifth, eighth, and eleventh grades.)
- He also says that Pennsylvania is responding to the accountability plans and applauds educators for rising to the challenge.
- He supports your second-term initiatives, including your Teacher Incentive Fund to reward teachers and schools that are closing the achievement gap. He feels that Pennsylvania is well-situated to take advantage of that initiative.
- Lou and his wife, Sharon, have two grown children, Jennifer and Greg. Both Greg and Jennifer are teachers in the Allentown School District.

Sharen Finzimer [FIN-zim-er], Principal, F.S. Edmonds School (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania)

- Sharen is in her third year as principal of F.S. Edmonds, a Pre-K through sixth grade school. Prior to this position, she was principal of Julia Ward Howe Elementary School in Philadelphia for seven years. Sharen taught for 11 years prior to becoming a principal.
- F.S. Edmonds School is 100 percent low-income and 99.4 percent African-American. The school has made AYP for the past two years and saw a significant improvement in its test scores last year. The percentage of students proficient in reading increased from 41 percent to 58 percent, and the percentage of students proficient in math increased from 29 percent to 55 percent.
- All of the teachers at F.S. Edmonds are highly qualified, and NCLB gave the teachers in the school the motivation to make sure they had the appropriate training to be effective.
- Sharen uses Title I funds to manage a Saturday school reading enrichment class, which targets students who have low scores on reading tests.
- As a result of NCLB and its emphasis on scientifically-based reading instruction, the Philadelphia School District uses one reading curriculum and one math curriculum for the entire district for the first time ever. Significant training has been provided for Sharen's teachers in these curricula so teachers feel prepared.
- She says, "because of President Bush, we now have two blocks of mandated times for reading and math each day." She believes these blocks of time had a significant impact in the improving achievements of her students.
- Sharen and her husband, Alan, have two grown children. Her son, David, is an elementary school teacher in Philadelphia.

Megan Schmidt, English and Creative Writing Teacher, North Penn Senior High School (Lansdale, Pennsylvania)

- Megan is in her third year of teaching at North Penn Senior High School. She teaches 11th grade American Literature and 11th and 12th grade Creative Writing classes. Before teaching at North Penn Senior High, she taught 9th grade English at Penndale Middle School for one year.
- She says, "No Child Left Behind is a great piece of legislation that keeps teachers accountable for the progress of their students." Megan also believes "low-income and low-performing students are now having their needs fulfilled."
- Megan participates in the school's writing lab, which was created three years ago to help students who were not performing at grade level. She says that she has seen improvement in the students' writing skills since this lab began, and she believes that by identifying students' problems and finding a way to help speed up the students' progress, each student will have more of an opportunity to achieve.
- She is supportive of your new teacher pay-for-performance proposal and believes it will provide an added incentive for teachers to help students learn. She says, "Teachers obviously feel rewarded when their students learn, but it would be nice to receive a bonus for working hard and trying to close the achievement gap."
- Megan and her husband, Kevin, do not have any children.

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

STATE ISSUES

EMPLOYMENT FIGURES

Pennsylvania's unemployment rate in August was 5.6 percent, 0.3 percentage point below its peak of 5.9 percent in February 2003.¹ As of August 2004, the national unemployment rate was 5.4 percent. Overall, jobs have been returning to Pennsylvania since February 2004; it has seen an increase of 66,800 jobs since then.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY DECLARATIONS

Hurricane Frances

On September 19, you declared a major disaster for Pennsylvania and ordered Federal aid to supplement state and local recovery efforts. The aid was targeted for the area struck by severe storms and flooding associated with Tropical Storm Frances on September 8 and 9. Your action makes Federal funding available to affected individuals in the counties of Beaver, Blair, and Crawford.

Hurricane Ivan

On September 19, you also declared a major disaster for the area struck by Tropical Depression Ivan. Your action makes Federal funding available to affected individuals in the counties of Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Centre, Clearfield, Cumberland, Dauphin, Indiana, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Lycoming, Northampton, Perry, Schuylkill, Susquehanna, Washington, Westmoreland, and Wyoming.

COMMONWEALTH BUDGET AND REVENUE

In July, Governor Ed Rendell (D) signed into law a $23 billion budget for FY 2005. In contrast to the previous year's budget, this budget contains no new tax increases and will maintain services for Pennsylvanians by increasing budgets for key programs. These programs include medical assistance, child care, and community mental health. The budget was passed unanimously by the Pennsylvania Senate and 193-8 by the House.

Overall spending will increase by 4.3 percent. A major component of the budget is a measure approving as many as 61,000 slot machines at seven racetracks, two resorts, and five stand-alone sites. Pennsylvania will be second only to Nevada with its number of slot machines. The expected $1 billion in revenue from the slot machines will finance property-tax reductions for homeowners across the Commonwealth.

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

Rendell Administration officials say revenue projections are higher this year than anticipated. The Commonwealth is rebounding from the revenue shortfalls of the last two budget cycles. Pennsylvania Budget Secretary Michael Masch (D) has estimated the Commonwealth will end with a $500 million budget surplus this fiscal year.

EDUCATION BUDGET

Pennsylvania's education system should benefit from the budget, which raises community college spending by 5.8 percent, state-owned college spending by 4.3 percent, and state-related college spending by 3 percent. Overall, basic education subsidies for the Commonwealth's 501 school districts will increase by 3.6 percent, with each district guaranteed a funding boost of at least two percent.

Pennsylvania does better than most states in college completion rates, receiving an "A" in this category on the 2002 report card. However, along with 35 other states, Pennsylvania received an "F" in keeping campuses affordable (from the National Center for Public Policy and Higher Education in its report released on September 15, 2004).

Governor Rendell has urged leaders of Pennsylvania's 14 state universities to forgo a 6.9 percent tuition increase, citing the 4.3 percent increase in their total funding through the new budget.

US AIRWAYS BANKRUPTCY

On September 12, US Airways filed for bankruptcy for the second time in two years after it was unable to secure another round of concessions from its labor unions. The company of over 3,000 pilots and 28,000 employees (including more than 8,000 in Philadelphia) is seeking to reduce overall labor costs by $805 million, including $295 million in annual concessions from pilots.

On March 31, 2003, US Airways received a loan guarantee from the Air Transportation Stabilization Board (ATSB), which was created after 9/11 to help airlines recover. The loan guarantee covered $900 million of a $1 billion loan. This loan, along with private financing and $2 billion in cost cuts, allowed US Airways to emerge from its first bankruptcy. Since then, however, the carrier has not achieved its financial projections because of higher-than-expected fuel costs, intense competition from low-cost airlines such as Southwest Airlines, and a broad decline in high-end demand.

In this second bankruptcy, US Airways will likely try to terminate its remaining pension plans (its pilots' plan was terminated in the last bankruptcy). The Federal Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) would then take over responsibility for the plans' payments and their massive unfunded liabilities. PBGC annual payments are capped at $44,000, meaning that some highly compensated US Airways employees may lose some of their benefits.

US Airways will work to renegotiate its labor contracts and seek private capital as it reorganizes under bankruptcy protection. Without substantial cost cuts and private sector investment, the airline is likely to liquidate.

CAMERA SYSTEM

On September 15, the Pittsburgh City Council approved the use of a nearly $496,000 anti-terrorism grant from the U.S. Department of Justice to build a robotic camera system to help public safety officials respond to emergencies. The new cameras will link to existing camera feeds from the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation and other agencies, and be monitored by the city-county Emergency Operations Center.

COAL ENERGY

Governor Rendell has targeted the Pennsylvania coal industry in his plans to put environmental protection at the top of his agenda. The Governor is supporting legislation requiring energy producers to burn less coal within six years. As part of his plan, the Governor wants to require energy companies to increase their use of alternative fuels by ten percent by 2010. The Governor also wants the Commonwealth and government contractors to use alternatives to coal for 20 percent of their energy by 2010.

On June 7, Congressman and U.S. Senate candidate Joe Hoeffel (D-13) called for "energy independence," by proposing energy conservation, alternative production measures, and a 50 percent increase in fuel efficiency for cars.

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

MERCURY RULES

On April 15, Philadelphia became the first major city to pass a resolution urging the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to revisit its mercury rules. Specifically, the Philadelphia resolution urges EPA to issue rules that would reduce mercury emissions by 90 percent by the year 2008. By agreement, EPA will issue final rules in March 2005.

TOBYHANNA ARMY DEPOT

The Tobyhanna Army Depot, located in Monroe County in northeast Pennsylvania, is targeted for the next round of base closures. The Depot is the region's largest employer with 3,500 employees, and it is set to hire another 300. The Depot designs, manufactures, and repairs military electronic systems. It has an annual payroll of over $200 million and supports many local businesses with its purchases. The Depot has an overall economic impact of $900 million, and it is estimated that its spending supports 3,940 additional jobs in the area.

In the last four rounds of base closures from 1988 to 1995, Pennsylvania lost 16,000 jobs. A group of regional business and political leaders has hired a Washington lobbyist to raise $350,000 in an effort to keep the Depot off the U.S. Department of Defense's list of proposed base closures to be submitted in May 2005. Senator Arlen Specter (R, PA) has reiterated his support for keeping the Depot open.

CRIME RATES

Serious crimes and lesser offenses declined slightly in 2003 in Pennsylvania overall but increased in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. The annual Uniform Crime Report (which tallies murders, rapes, thefts, assaults, and less serious offenses throughout the state) counted 927,099 crimes reported to state police, a decrease of 0.7 percent from 2002. The number of serious crimes (murder, rape, robbery, arson) also dropped by 0.7 percent. About 321,000 such crimes were reported in 2002, and if that number holds, it will be the state's lowest "serious crime" figure since 1973. The final 2003 figure could change as police continue to update reports throughout this year and next.

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFING

FINANCIAL ISSUES IN PITTSBURGH AND PHILADELPHIA

Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh's finance director's projections show the city will end December $8.8 million in debt. The city controller's projection is equally bad, predicting the city will run out of money by the end of November, ending the year $13 million in debt.

The city's fiscal oversight board is expected to issue the legislature its long-term plan for restructuring the budget in the next few weeks. The plan may include increasing the ten dollar yearly occupation tax and instituting a payroll tax for businesses. If the state does not approve some kind of tax reform, the City's Act 47 recovery team is empowered to petition the Common Pleas Court for wage taxes on commuters and city workers.

Philadelphia

On June 21, the Philadelphia City Council passed a $3.4 billion 2005 fiscal year budget in a 12-5 vote. Council members also approved tax-cutting measures to reduce the City's wage and business-privilege taxes. Mayor John Street (D) fought any tax reduction measure. After tough negotiations between Mayor Street and the City Council, some provisions were dropped, including a $110 million business tax-cut bill. Street accepted $50 million in wage tax-cuts and agreed to spending cuts, including four million dollars for the Philadelphia Police Department.

In early September, Mayor Street unveiled a $500 million "New River City" plan to spur redevelopment of abandoned industrial sites near the Schuylkill and Delaware Rivers. The plan includes turning part of the Navy Yard into a mixed-use community of suburban-style homes, office parks, and a marina over the next 30 years

INVESTIGATION OF STREET ADMINISTRATION

Since October 2003, a wide-ranging investigation of city contracts and political connections involving some officials for Philadelphia Mayor John Street has been ongoing. A number of officials connected with the Street Administration have been indicted recently.

BRIEFING AND TOUR OF FLOOD DAMAGE

Wednesday, September 22, 2004

3:20 p.m. – 4:15 p.m.

Millvale, Pennsylvania

Frances Fragos Townsend

I. PURPOSE

To survey and receive a briefing on damage caused by flooding in the aftermath of Hurricane Ivan.

II. BACKGROUND

On September 17, 2004, remnants of Hurricane Ivan dropped five to seven inches of rain on communities lying between eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania. Total rainfall on September 17 and 18 in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was up to 9.5 inches. Rainfall total recorded at Pittsburgh International Airport was 5.9 inches, breaking the one-day rainfall record of 3.6 inches set September 8, 2004, after the remnants of Hurricane Frances passed through the region. The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration - National Weather Service confirmed that tornadoes touched down in Bedford, Franklin, and Cumberland Counties in Pennsylvania on September 17 causing tree, building, and crop damage.

The record-setting rain fell onto saturated ground and into creeks that were still swollen from the effects of Hurricane Frances. This caused localized flooding, forcing evacuation of low-lying areas and blocking roadways. The Allegheny, Monongahela, and Ohio Rivers flooded through Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Ohio.

State and local authorities, with Federal financial assistance, are responding to the flooding. You declared a major disaster for Pennsylvania and Ohio. The following 19 Pennsylvania counties are eligible for Federal disaster aid: Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Centre, Clearfield, Cumberland, Dauphin, Indiana, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Lycoming, Northampton, Perry, Schuylkill, Susquehanna, Washington, Westmoreland and Wyoming.

III. PARTICIPANTS

Senator Arlen Specter (R)

Senator Rick Santorum (R)

Congressman Melissa Hart (R, PA-04)

Congressman Tim Murphy (R, PA-18)

Western Pennsylvania Flood Damage Summary
Western Pennsylvania Flood Response Summary

Western Pennsylvania Flooding --Damage Summary--

Remnants of Hurricane Ivan produced heavy rains resulting in flooding in both eastern and western Pennsylvania. In the east the Susquehanna River flooded parts of Harrisburg and other communities. In the west, the Ohio River and tributaries flooded rural and small town areas, including Allegheny County, west of Pittsburgh.

Flood Status (as of 2 p.m. September 21)

There has been no rain for the last few days, and high pressure is dominating the weather over the region, allowing for a continued decrease in river levels. No precipitation is expected until the weekend. Status of significant flooding:

- The Ohio and Susquehanna rivers continue to run high but are slowly receding across Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Kentucky.
- Some flooding in Florida, Georgia, and the Carolinas continues but is receding.

Human Toll (as of 5:00 p.m. Tuesday, September 21)

- 10 fatalities related to the flooding, including some in Allegheny County, have been confirmed by Pennsylvania Emergency Management officials.

Structural Damage

Damage assessments are ongoing. Preliminary reporting for Allegheny County as of 4:00 p.m., September 21, indicated damage to:

- Over 2,000 homes (264 sustained major damage and 4 were destroyed)
- Over 100 multifamily structures (8 major)
- 25 mobile homes
- Over 250 businesses (57 major)
- 2 schools
- 32 public buildings
- 3 municipal buildings flooded (Etna, Oakdale, Millvale)
- 7 fire stations
- 12 police cars
- 99 roads
- 13 bridges

Power Disruptions

- At the peak of the storm, approximately 116,000 Pennsylvanians were without power.
- Pennsylvania power companies, including Allegheny Power/Duquesne Light, anticipate total restoration of service by Tuesday, September 21.

Human Services

- The American Red Cross reports 12 open shelters with 365 people in residence, as of 12:00 p.m., Tuesday, September 21.
- Red Cross has 13 Emergency Response Vehicles providing service to victims.

Telecommunications

- Pennsylvania state officials report that 1,152 customers remain without phone service.

Transportation

- Pennsylvania: Numerous roads have been reopened as waters receded and debris removed, but at 12:00 p.m., Tuesday, September 21, the state reported hundreds of roads remained closed.
- Ohio: The Ohio Department of Transportation reports at least 125 state route closures in a 19 county area of eastern and southern Ohio on the morning of Tuesday, September 21, along with many local roads. None of the routes are Interstate routes. Conditions are the most serious in Belmont County (virtually all roads except the Interstate were closed at various times) and the City of Marietta where a large part of the city is flooded by the Ohio River.
- West Virginia: Initial reports indicated 228 roads and bridges are closed.

Western Pennsylvania Flooding --Response Summary--

Nearly all response was handled by state and local authorities. Federal response operations were minimal and primarily consisted of rescue operations. However, the Federal government is providing financial assistance to aid the response and recovery.

Federal Financial Assistance

- You declared Major Disasters as a result of Ivan for the States of Ohio and Pennsylvania on Sunday, September 19. You also declared a disaster for West Virginia on Monday, September 20.
- Federal funds will be provided for the state and affected local governments in the 19 designated counties in Pennsylvania to pay 75 percent of the eligible costs for debris removal and emergency services related to the storm.
- Federal funding also will be available to the state on a cost-shared basis for approved projects that reduce future disaster risks. Assistance includes grants to help pay for temporary housing, home repairs and other serious disaster-related expenses. Low-interest loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration also will be available to cover residential and business losses not fully compensated by insurance.
- More counties and additional forms of assistance for state and local government agencies may be designated as soon as damage assessments can be completed in the affected area.

Life Saving and Life Safety

- U.S. Coast Guard, the Pennsylvania National Guard, and the Crafton Volunteer Fire Department conducted a series of rubber raft rescues of flood victims, including rescuing a man off of his roof and 14 persons trapped on a bridge.

Coordination

- FEMA has designated a Federal Coordinating Officer (Thomas Davies) for Pennsylvania and has established an Initial Operating Facility in Essington.

Medical Support

- All hospitals in affected counties are in normal operations.

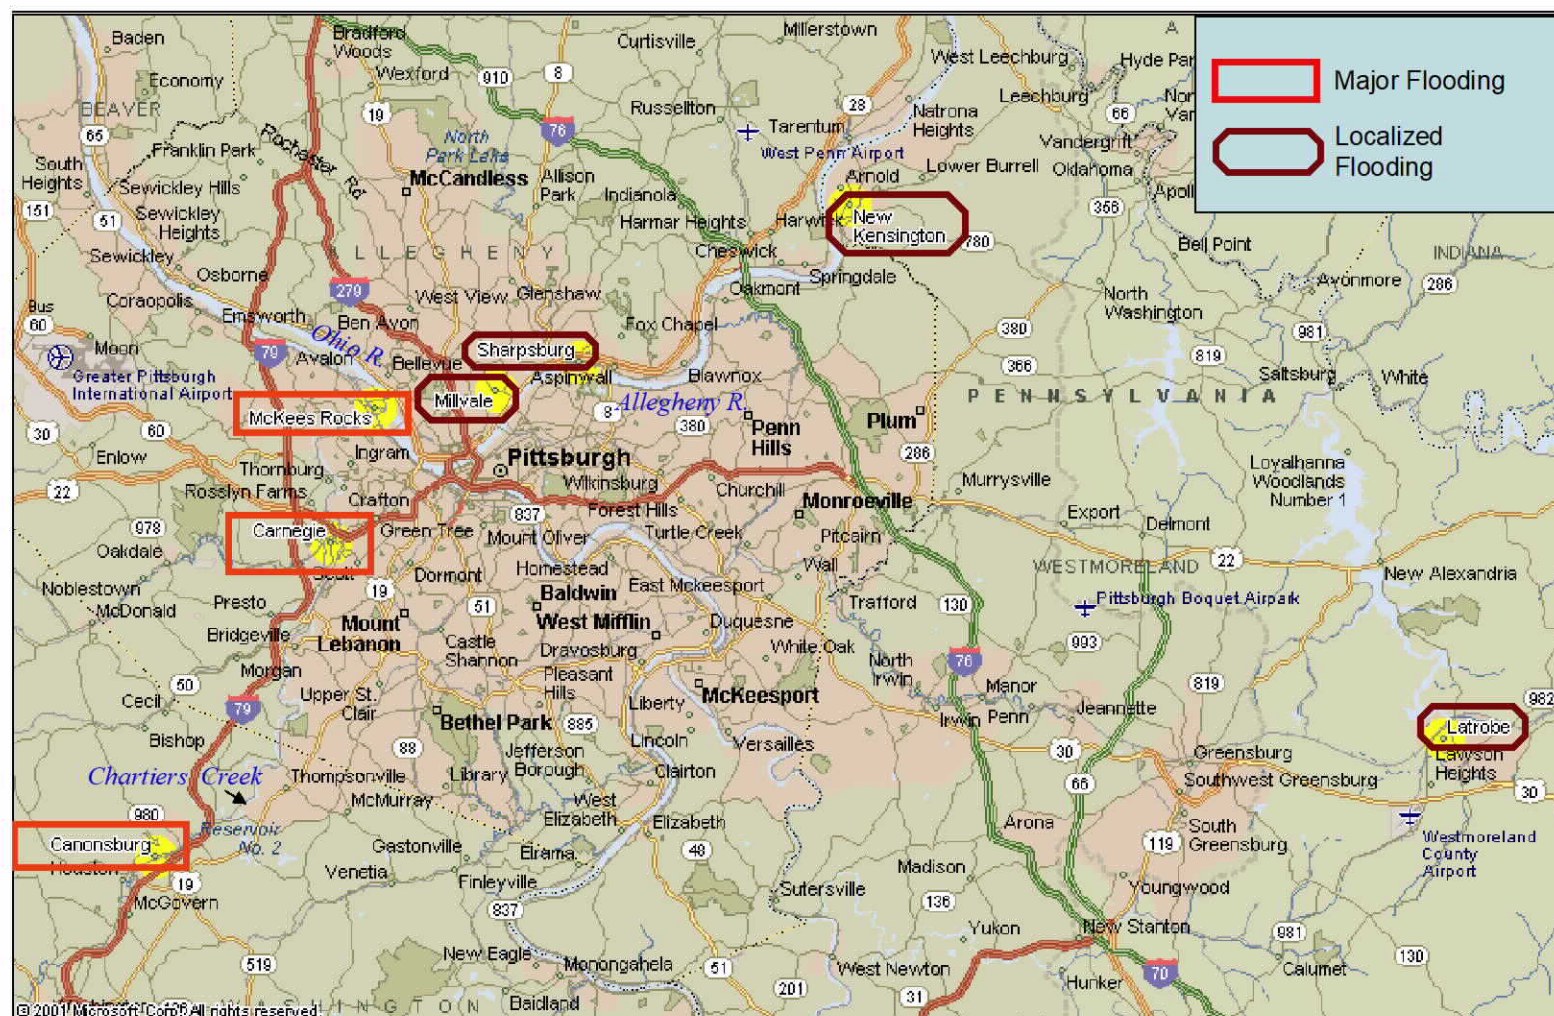

Logistical Support

Allegheny County has requested water for 28,000 people for 3 days. 12 water trucks provided by the General Services Administration arrived Tuesday morning, September 21.

GUEST OF THE PRESIDENT ON AIR FORCE ONE

Name: Congressman Tim Murphy (R, PA-18)

Date: Wednesday, September 22, 2004

Participation: The Congressman will accompany you aboard Air Force One from Latrobe, Pennsylvania, to Washington, D.C.

Purpose: The Congressman will join the aerial tour of damage sustained by Tropical Depression Ivan and your remarks at the Victory 2004 rally in Westmoreland County.

Notes:

- Congressman Murphy is the Vice-Chairman of the Government Reform Subcommittee on Civil Service and Agency Reorganization.
- The Congressman gained public recognition in his district by giving medical advice through television and radio appearances as “Dr. Tim.”
- Congressman Murphy co-authored the book, The Angry Child: Regaining Control When Your Child is Out of Control.
- Certain areas within the Congressman’s district were severely damaged by Tropical Depression Ivan and were declared major disaster areas.

Background:

- U.S. House of Representatives (2003 - Present)
- Pennsylvania State Senate (1997 - 2002)
- Child Psychologist (1976 - 2002)

Politics: Congressman Murphy is a conservative Republican who has supported all of your major programs and initiatives, with the exception of his recent vote in favor of the Obey amendment to the FY ’05 Labor-HHS Appropriations Bill, which sought to impede implementation of the new overtime regulations. The Congressman was elected with 60 percent of the vote and represents a district that supported you in the 2000 election.

Legislation: The Congressman has authored legislation that would support U.S. investment in Iraqi schools and communities through “adopt-a-school” and “adopt-a-hospital” programs. Congressman Murphy is also a strong advocate of affordable prescription drugs.

GUEST OF THE PRESIDENT ON AIR FORCE ONE

Name: Congresswoman Melissa Hart (R, PA-04)

Date: Wednesday, September 22, 2004

Participation: Congresswoman Hart will accompany you aboard Air Force One from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to Washington, D.C.

Purpose: The Congresswoman will join the aerial tour of damage sustained by Tropical Depression Ivan and briefing in Allegheny County and attend your remarks at the Victory 2004 rally in Westmoreland County.

Notes:

- Congresswoman Hart was the first Republican woman to be elected to the United States House of Representatives from Pennsylvania.
- The Congresswoman is the Vice Chair of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitution.
- Congresswoman Hart served as Chairwoman of the Finance Committee in the Pennsylvania State Senate.

Background:

- U.S. House of Representatives (2001 - Present)
- Pennsylvania State Senate (1991 - 2000)
- Attorney (1987 - 2001)

Politics: Congresswoman Hart is a conservative Republican who is one of only a handful of Members to have supported all of your major programs and initiatives in the 108th Congress. Despite her strong performance in the previous election, Congresswoman Hart's district leans Democratic and has the potential to be competitive in this election.

Legislation: Congresswoman Hart has introduced legislation dealing with issues ranging from brownfield redevelopment to advanced career training. She also maintains a strong interest in funding hydroelectric projects in Pennsylvania. The Congresswoman sponsored the Unborn Victims of Violence Act, or Laci and Conner's Law, which you signed into law on April 1, 2004.
