Biographical History: Harriet Ellan Miers was born in Dallas in 1945. She earned degrees in mathematics and law from Southern Methodist University. Miers clerked for US District Court Judge Joe Estes from 1970 to 1972, later entering private practice with the firm of Locke, Purnell, Rain, Harrell.

In the late 1990s, she became the first woman to lead the firm and became co-managing partner when the firm merged with a Houston-based law office. She became the first woman to lead the Dallas Bar Association in 1985 and was elected in 1992 to lead the State Bar of Texas.

Miers was elected to an at-large position on the Dallas City Council in 1989. Following George W. Bush's election as Governor of Texas in 1994, Miers worked as general counsel for the incoming governor's transition team. Governor Bush selected Miers as head of the Texas Lottery Commission, and she served in that role from 1995 to 2000.

During the presidency of George W. Bush, Miers worked as White House Staff Secretary from 2001 to 2003. From 2003 to 2004 she served as Assistant to the President / Deputy Chief of Staff. She worked as White House Counsel from 2005 to 2007.

In October 2005, President George W. Bush nominated Miers to the United States Supreme Court seat left vacant by retiring Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. The nomination was later withdrawn. Following her departure from the White House in 2007, Miers returned to private law practice.

Scope and Content Note: The role of White House Staff Secretary is an administrative position, with the Staff Secretary responsible for paperwork coming to or from the President and staffing out documents for review by White House staff, cabinet secretaries, or other federal agency heads. Because of this, the records accumulated in the Staff Secretary files can concern virtually any topic and any type of document: speeches, memoranda, presidential schedules, fact sheets, and public correspondence.

Currently, the only series that is open for research is Series 5, Presidential Remarks. The Presidential Remarks files are arranged chronologically. This series consists of speech drafts and the final version of speeches used for delivery by President George W. Bush. Many of those speeches have the President's handwritten edits.

System of Arrangement: The collection is arranged in eleven series.
