Administrative History: The White House Office of Records Management is responsible for the filing and retrieval of records created during the incumbent presidential administration. The use of a filing methodology for records created or received by the White House dates to at least the early years of the 20th century, and has undergone changes since that time to cope with the ever-expanding volume of paperwork handled by the President and his staff.

The White House Office of Records Management, or ORM (or WHORM) manages the office files of individual White House staff members, as well as administration records that are arranged by subject code and case file ID number according to their general subject matter.

Scope and Content Note: Memoranda, reports, speeches and speechwriting forms, press releases, publications, tracking sheets, and correspondence received in the White House Office of Records Management during the administration of George W. Bush. Topics included within this series do not encompass strictly “welfare” as related to federal government efforts to alleviate poverty. The series includes some material on welfare reform and “Welfare-to-Work” events at the White House, but also consists of records on global poverty, President George W. Bush’s “Call to Service” initiative, and efforts to encourage greater national involvement in community service and citizen well-being issues.

This collection is only partially processed and some boxes may be unavailable for research.
