Material at the George W. Bush Presidential Library Pertaining To The Terrorist Attacks of September 11, 2001

Introduction

This guide includes the principle files at the George W. Bush Presidential Library that contain material relating to the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001 that have been processed and are available for research. It is not definitive, however, and researchers should consult with the Library's archivists about other potentially useful files.

This guide identifies materials that have been opened for research through systematic processing or under a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request. Check the George W. Bush Library website, as it is constantly updated with new finding aids and digitized content. If records are available via the Digital Library, a link has been provided.

To key-word search digitized content from across the National Archives and Records Administration, visit the National Archives Catalog. To see material exclusively from the George W. Bush Presidential Library, perform an Advanced Search selecting George W. Bush Library as the Location of Archival Materials.

Records of the 9/11 Commission

The National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States - known as the 9/11 Commission - was an independent, bipartisan commission created by Congress to provide a "full and complete accounting" of the attacks of September 11, 2001. When the Commission closed on August 21, 2004, it transferred legal custody of its records to the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA). NARA maintains information related to the records on its website: 9/11 Commission Records.

On the website, NARA provides a listing of the status (open, pending, etc.) of the Commission's Memoranda for the Record \(MFR\). The MFR have been digitized and are available through the National Archives Catalog. Additional record series have also been digitized, and an archived copy of the Commission's website has been maintained at <http://www.9-11commission.gov/>.

Records of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) (Record Group 237)

Over 8,700 electronic data files from the FAA were produced in response to a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, including information relating to the terrorist attacks, the FAA's involvement in monitoring the flights, and actions taken following the attacks. A general description of the records is available through the National Archives Catalog: Open Files Relating to the September 11, 2001 Terrorist Attacks on the United States, 2001 - 2004 (National Archives Identifier: 7419198). The records are available for research at the National Archives in College Park, Maryland.
